SCHOOLS IN U. S. TO LEAD WORLD

Education Commissioner Says Wealthy Colleges Face Great Future.

"Because of conditions which have arisen in the last few years, America has presented to her the opportunity of taking the lead in higher education," said Philander P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, in an interview yesterday.

"Germany for many years has attracted to her universities, technical schools and scientific institutes, many foreign men and women from other countries, and especially from America, and she has no doubt taken advantage of this to attempt to impregnate the countries of the world with her kultur and to influence them by the dominant policy of her educational propaganda.

"But the war has put a stop to this. There is no immediate prospect of Germany being able to successfully appeal to the students of Great Britain, France or Italy. Due to close proximity she may draw to her students from Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Russia, Rumania and Western Asia, but even this advantage is being nullified by efforts of American educational institutions to meet the needs of foreign students and by the offering of scholarships.

"Germany Former Leader.

"Germany undoubtedly has been a leader along philosophical and scientific-industrial lines. This is due to the fact that she is possessed of a larger percentage, per capita, of trained scientific and technical material, which is specialized to a remarkable degree. By practical elimination of the individual and subordination to class accomplishment, Germany has been able to astound the world by her thoroughness and the results she has obtained in scientific research.

"The United States today is fast becoming the leading nation in higher education. Her universities and institutions of learning are becoming rapidly more wealthy and their working capital is so great as to provide the necessary means for any development.

American Schools Rich.

"The wealth of American institutions can best be indicated by the fact that Columbia University, of New York, has a working income of over $1,000,000, while Oxford, Britain's ancient seat of learning has only approximately $2,500,000. The astounding fact is developed that 6 per cent of the seats of learning in this country control 60 per cent of the total working income of this class of institutions.

"Never before in the history of the country has there been such a demand for higher education. The reasons for this are not hard to find. At the present time men with scientific or technical training are required for the rehabilitation of Europe and the pioneering and up-building of Asiatic countries. This demand will last a great while, and opportunities abound for the employment of capable persons.

Need National School.

"America's wealth is so great, the rewards she has to offer the master-trained mind are so rich, that in a far greater degree than any other country she offers advantages which will not only draw to her pupils, but the genius of all countries. A great national university would not only make America the leader in scientific and industrial development; in the making of the fine arts, but would increase her prestige and, through intimate contact, would permeate the whole world with the spirit of her civilization and ideals."

America's First Coast-to-Coast Airliner

This big Lawson passenger plane is being completed in Milwaukee for transcontinental service. It will carry twenty-six persons in its luxurious cabin. Its wing spread is ninety-five feet, its weight seven tons, and two 400-horsepower Liberty motors are expected to drive it along at 100 miles an hour. Lawson plans a fleet of 100 of these planes.

NAVY GLEE CLUB DELIGHTS CROWD

"Singing Gobs" Make Big Hit at First Congregational Church.

"Jerry" Swineford and his singing "gobs" came back to Washington last night.

When the United States Navy Glee Club, of Hampton Roads, Va., finished its brief program at the First Congregational Church the crowd burst into applause. The forty "gobs" bowed and grinned and Director Swineford assured the audience the boys "didn't know any more—that they could sing in a church."

The program included a series of negro melodies gathered at Hampton Institute. Among them were "Steal Away," "Where I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray" and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." The solo role in the last song being carried by Harry Yokel.

Director Swineford closed the program with "Till We Meet Again." Mr. Swineford carrying the solo part himself.

The glee club was in Washington during the Victory Loan drive and sang at a number of the larger loan rallies. Since leaving Washington they have been touring the United States to stimulate interest in recruiting for the navy.

At noon today the "gobs" will give an open air concert for war workers on the steps of the State, War and Navy Building and at 4:45 o'clock in the afternoon they will sing at the corner of Eleventh and Pennsylvania avenue, northwest.

Tonight at Liberty Hut the boys will give a concert for the people of Washington.

Neglects Her Stomach To Pay Rent, She Says

New York, July 20.—"I have to let my stomach go empty in order to fill my landlord's pocketbook." So writes Mrs. W. Gilbride, of Brooklyn, in a letter forwarded from Mayor Hylan's office yesterday to the committee on rent profiteering. She said her rent had been raised $9 a month by a new landlord.

Another letter from Augustus C. Christ of 511 West 161st street, told that in a little more than a year his rent for a fourth floor rear apartment had been raised from $23 to $42. He said the landlord was H. and A. Cohen, of 172 West street.

DRESSMAKERS DENY THEY BOOST PRICES

New York, July 20.—That the manufacturers of women's dresses are doing everything possible to keep the prices as near those before the war as conditions permit is the statement of David N. Mossesheim, executive director of the Associated Dress Industries of America.

Mr. Mossesheim said that the present raw material market was in a serious condition, but that while prices for everything had continued to climb his association had done a great deal to keep prices down.

PORT CHESTER URGED TO DROP THE PORT

New York, July 20.—Village President Arthur B. Wilson, of Port Chester, N. Y., received a letter yesterday from a man signing himself "Port" in which he urged that the "Port" be dropped from Port Chester.

The letter was mailed from Stamford, Conn. The writer stated that Port Chester folks have little excuse for laughing at the folks in Rye, N. Y., for wanting to change its name to conform to prohibition standards.

SCORES ARE INJURED IN CRASH ON "L"

New York, July 19.—A score of persons were injured in a rear-end collision on the Third avenue elevated railway near the Grand Street Station this afternoon.

Two cars were telescoped when a stationary train was struck by another. One passenger was thrown from a window but clung to the trestle. The motorman of the rear train was buried in the debris and firemen were called to extricate him.

BRITISH SUBJECT SLAIN BY MEXICAN BANDITS

Laredo, Tex., July 20.—Private telegrams received here today stated that Theodore Patterson, mine superintendent of the Mazapil Copper Company at Concepcion del Oro, State of Zacatecas, Mexico, was killed by bandits at his camp yesterday.

Patterson was a British subject. No details were given.

160-POUND BRIDE WILL WIN FARM

Young Missouri Man Bars Manicurists, Actresses And "Butterflies."

Philadelphia, July 20.—If you're a 160-pound brunette, between 20 and 20 and unmarried, there's a $75,000 farm out in Missouri that's just waiting for you to come out and run it. The way to become boss of the farm is to marry Edwin L. Lovelocky, who has just arrived in Philadelphia to spend two weeks in looking around for the right Mrs. Lovelocky.

Lovelocky is particular about the bride-to-be making the stipulated weight, for he says it takes something of an amazon these days to be a farmer's wife, what with milking the cows and feeding the horses and playing the automatic piano.

Lovelocky has, however, made up a list of women who need not apply. He says that actresses, hairdressers, manicures and cashiers won't do. They are too much in the public eye. He also bars ticket-sellers and demonstrators for the same reason. Social butterflies are also barred.

Above all things he insists on a brunette—he says blondes are fickle—and the 160-pound weight.

Lovelocky is 31 years old, tall and good looking. He weighs 155 and, best of all, girls, he has no living relatives. Applicants should send photographs and thumbnail sketches to the North Philadelphia postoffice. Lovelocky is staying with friends in Germantown.

"Cakes and Beer, and Washing Here"

Before a ramshackle house in a little New England village there used to hang this sign:

"Hiram, the widow's son, I hope,
"Can furnish customers with soap,
"Such as will make the washing day
"Pass off as pleasant, e'en as May.
"Cakes, and beer, and washing here."

Hiram had the right idea. He knew that there were people who wanted what he had to sell. The difference between Hiram and the modern advertiser is that the former had to trust to somebody passing to see his sign. He could not bring his sign to everybody.

The modern advertiser with something to sell that he feels you want, saves you the trouble of going to his place to see about it. Readers of advertisements visit all the advertisers at a single sitting.

This is a service that those who advertise are rendering you, just as the clerks they hire, the deliveries they make, are service. They are saving your time, energy and money by bringing their establishments to you through the advertisements.
